VOLUME CONTENTS

Volume 25 Number 1 January 2003

P.V. Marsden	1	Interviewer effects in measuring network size using a single name generator
N.P. Hummon and P. Doreian	17	Some dynamics of social balance processes: bringing Heider back into balance theory
M. Marx and M. Masuch	51	Regular equivalence and dynamic logic
H.H.S. Moerbeek and A. Need	67	Enemies at work: can they hinder your career?
M.E.J. Newman	83	Ego-centered networks and the ripple effect
J. Bruggeman, G. Carnabuci and I. Vermeulen	97	A note on structural holes theory and niche overlap

Volume 25 Number 2 May 2003

C.T. Butts	103	Network inference, error, and informant (in)accuracy: a Bayesian approach
P.D. Killworth, C. McCarty, H. Russell Bernard, E.C. Johnsen, J. Domini and G.A. Shelley	141	Two interpretations of reports of knowledge of subpopulation sizes
G.R. Barnes, P.B. Cerrito and I. Levi	161	Construction of well separated interaction semigroups to refine the modeling of social networks
J. Nyblom, S. Borgatti, J. Roslakka and M.A. Salo	175	Statistical analysis of network data—an application to diffusion of innovation

Volume 25 Number 3 July 2003

J.N. Cummings and R. Cross	197	Structural properties of work groups and their consequences for performance
L.A. Adamic and E. Adar	211	Friends and neighbors on the Web

doi:10.1016/S0378-8733(03)00029-7

M. Kalmijn 231 Shared friendship networks and the life course: an analysis of survey data on married and cohabiting couples

S.-K. Han 251 Tribal regimes in academia: a comparative analysis of market structure across disciplines

Corrigendum
K. Yamaguchi 281 Corrigendum to "The structural and behavioral characteristics of the smallest-word phenomenon: minimum distance networks" [Social Networks 24 (2002) 161–182]

Volume 25 Number 4 October 2003

E. Costenbader and T.W. Valente 283 The stability of centrality measures when networks are sampled

M.J. Lubbers 309 Group composition and network structure in school classes: a multilevel application of the p^* model

W.S. Lovejoy and C.H. Loch 333 Minimal and maximal characteristic path lengths in connected sociomatrices
